

THE SALVATION OF DESIRE

"Nothing is difficult that is wholly desired." Course in Miracles

Intent, the push of the heart, the call of the soul, the pangs of a dream, will carry you. The hope beyond despair, the vision that stays stuck, the plan, despite all logic, the faith that surpasses all understanding, will sustain you. Embrace desire, because it is god's voice in your ear.

When you are certain of what you want, really certain of what you want, and you have enough ammunition to shoot the spots of failure. That is because the golden pot at the rainbows edge, will give meaning to every little moment in your life. Your eyes will be able to stretch far enough to see beyond mediocrity and pain. In the clarification of a goal, you can suspend all petty details and save your life.

No one who has a single purpose, unified and sure, will ever lose. Everyday, you can begin at the beginning and begin again. Every sunrise, you can choose to join your big truth, and let go of your little life. In choosing a long road with spectacular color and holding on, you can let go of all other things that do not fit the picture.

When life gets tough, when love seems to falter, when disappointment knocks at your door, when god seems to have taken his hike, you can find peace in your purpose. It will never betray you or let you down, because it is your art, created by you, and gives you reason for breath.

In search of your treasure, every hour could be luminous, because every moment is part of the dream you would find. Your every effort will be to overlook what interferes with the accomplishment of your objective. The distraction of life, of people and places and things will stop its importance, and turn into a small balloon that you can send off in the breeze.

In focus, in preparation of a grander dream, is your salvation. Because vision and intent will shift and replace all wandering thoughts. You will be able to choose beauty and veil all ugliness. You will be able to change your mind in an instant. The instant brings correction of despair.

What for? What is the purpose? Are the questions, we must learn to ask in connection with all of life. It will direct all efforts automatically. The power of wanting is a gift. It will spring your feet, conquer your battles, allay your fears and keep you young.

Awaken to the desire in your soul. Say truly, "I am the fulfilled activity and sustaining power of every constructive thing I desire. Desire is the energy of heaven here on earth.
